

R&R

Property Inventory Services

Privacy Policy

Introduction

R&R Property Inventory Services respects your privacy and is committed to protecting it. We provide this Statement to inform you of our Privacy Policy and practices.

Collection of personal information

We may request personal information from you, like your name, e-mail address, company name, or telephone number. Your response to these inquiries is strictly voluntary. We do not divulge this information to any third parties. In addition, we may use this information to alert you of products and services that can assist your business.

Disclosure to third parties

We do not rent, sell, lease or disclose in any way your personal information to third parties.

Use of cookies

Cookies are small files that a web site places on your hard drive for identification purposes. Please note that the R&R Property Inventory Services website does not use cookies, however our hosting company does use them for statistical purposes only.